

IMPROVE PATIENT SCREENING BY USING ELECTRONIC HEALTH RECORDS

Use your patient registry EMR or EHR to improve identification of patients in need of colorectal cancer screening. Primary care physicians play a key role in the detection of colorectal cancer.

Increase the number of patients aged 50-75 years who have had one or more of the following screenings:

- Fecal occult blood test (FOBT) yearly
- Flexible Sigmoidoscopy every five years
- Colonoscopy every ten years

Screening is important, as it can detect abnormal cell growth, polyps, or lesions that can develop into colorectal cancer. If a problem is revealed, it is generally more treatable when it is found early, before it has a chance to spread.

With a simple office visit, your patients will be assured their health is being well monitored by you, their primary care physician.

What else can a patient do to lower their risk of cancer?

Eat a well-balanced, low-fat diet to maintain a healthy weight

Exercise Regularly * Don't Smoke * Limit Alcohol Intake

Discuss the patient's risk factors

According to the National Cancer Institute, colorectal cancer is the third most common type of non-skin cancer in men (after prostate and lung cancer) and in women (after breast and lung cancer). It is the second leading cause of cancer death in the U.S., after lung cancer. However, early diagnosis often leads to a complete cure.
